Swiss Surgery was created in 2018 by Professor Jan Schmidt, who was soon joined by some of the top internationally renowned surgeons. One of the main areas of expertise of all the doctors is in surgical oncology – the operative treatment of cancer in different areas of the human body.

At Swiss Surgery, quality is the top priority. Any patient can be certain that he will be operated upon with the utmost mastery and by a highly experienced surgeon. Therefore, only surgeons with a well-established national and international reputation can be associated with Swiss Surgery. All of the members of the team have vast operational experience in difficult and highly complex interventions in their respective fields. Other criteria for joining Swiss Surgery include an academic title, usually a professor and/or an honorary doctorate, as well as scientific publications in international medical journals. Every member of the team is fully committed to treating the patient with the greatest care, regardless of their insurance class. Last but not least, all of our team members carry out charity work in one form or another.

The most important thing is that only one expert is admitted per field. Our credo is Klasse statt Masse, which translates as Class instead of mass.

SWISS SURGERY

INTERNATIONAL PATIENTS CARE
You can contact Swiss Surgery in English, French, Italian, German, or Russian. Our team will review the case and organize a video conference upon request. It will then be determined whether treatment in Switzerland is possible and sensible. If so, the patient is assigned to his respective expert who will then carry out the treatment.
